HAWAIIAN LAW REVIEW
Amendment to the Hawaii State Constitution: Article XII, Sections 1 and 7

In the context of promoting the free exercise and instruction of the people in the principles of the Constitution, the Legislature has established the University of Hawaii. To the extent the Governing Board and faculty of the University of Hawaii comply with the purposes, policies, and requirements established under the Constitution, the University of Hawaii is granted the authority and discretion to advance and promote the purposes of the Constitution within its jurisdiction.

In order to achieve the objectives of this section, the University of Hawaii is authorized to pursue the following goals:

1. To provide instruction, research, and service to the people of the State of Hawaii.
2. To provide professional and technical education and training.
3. To promote the economic, social, and cultural development of the State.
4. To advance knowledge through research.
5. To provide leadership in public service.
6. To contribute to the understanding and appreciation of the human condition.

The University of Hawaii shall be governed by a Board of Regents, who shall have the power to establish policies and procedures necessary for the effective operation of the University.

The University of Hawaii shall be a public institution and shall be funded primarily by the State of Hawaii.

The Legislature shall have the power to appropriate funds for the operation and maintenance of the University of Hawaii.

The University of Hawaii shall be subject to review by the State Board of Education, which shall have the power to approve or disapprove the educational programs and policies of the University.

The University of Hawaii shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of the State of Hawaii.

This amendment to the Constitution shall take effect on the date of the general election following the approval of this amendment by the voters of the State of Hawaii.
