'H'-Shaped Waialae Home

By ROBYN RICKARD

The Oriental motif in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Gray in Waialae-Kahaia adds a delightful flair to their pattern for gracious living.

It is one of the homes selected by the American Institute of Architects, Hawaii Chapter for its annual house tour tomorrow.

Designed by Architect George V. Hogan, the house is "H"-shaped, with an Oriental garden in the front and a patio and swimming pool in the back.

The children's bedrooms, the garage and maid's quarters form two wings of the house. "H" in front and the master suite, kitchen and utility area form the rear leg, with the living-dining area as the crossbar.

This arrangement allows a maximum of privacy from within and without.

The children are out of the main entertainment area and there is a view from every room.

Sliding front doors complement the Oriental entrance garden which is shielded from the street with bamboo and viewed from the living room through large picture windows.

From the entry, there is access to the children's wing at the left.

One end of the living room forms a hallway which leads past the family room or den to the master suite.

The living room, which faces the garden opens onto the covered lanai and swimming pool patio area.

Smooth panels of Philippine mahogany contrast with the rough texture of grass screen interior walls in both living and dining rooms.

Carrying out the Oriental theme, the kitchen has sliding shutters covering the pass-through to the lanai.

The contrast of white with dark brown or black, which dominates the house, continues in the kitchen with black and white floors and white counter tops.

The master bedroom, which also carries out the theme and the color scheme, has sliding doors opening to the pool area.

A dressing room with many built-in cabinets adjoins the large compartment.
