West Oahu Soil and Water Conservation District

About Us:

Established in January 1950, West Oahu Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) helps farmers, ranchers and landowners to more sustainably manage their lands through best management practices. Specifically, the organization does this through support of conservation plan development, review and implementation as well as educational programming. West Oahu SWCD believes in the power of partnerships and education to strengthen agriculture in Hawaii. Together we can successfully steward the land and feed the people of Hawaii.

Mission: Coordinate and facilitate partners and governmental agencies in identifying and implementing projects and practices with cultural sensitivity to assure the protection of Hawaii's environment.

Directors: Larry Jefts (Chair), Alan Gottlieb (Vice-Chair and Treasurer), John McHugh (Secretary), Joe Para and Peter Gibson (at large)

Associate Directors: Kalani Fronda and Mike Glidden

Staff: Michelle Gorham

Volunteer Interpreter and Translator: Phianphachong Intarat
